Is there a Windows API method that returns TRUE if a string is contained in another string, and FALSE if it is not? I am looking for something like strstr, but that will return FALSE if the first string is longer than the second, and TRUE if they match. A: Your best bet is to just do a string compare with 0 for the beginning and the end of your string. If they match, you're all good. This is faster and easier to code than trying to implement your own function. A: The built-in function strstr is your best bet. Treaty of New Albany The Treaty of New Albany was a treaty that ended the Black Hawk War in June 1832. It was signed by representatives of the United States and the Sac and Fox Indian tribe and, according to the terms of the treaty, the United States paid $56,000 and allowed the tribe to settle on reserves in Kansas. Background By the mid-1820s the Sac and Fox had moved to Kansas, which had recently been admitted to the United States as a state. They had been driven from Missouri by the United States due to their refusal to comply with treaties made with the United States in the 1790s. After the War of 1812, the United States had enforced the Treaty of Fort Jackson, which 2d92ce491b
