Benyamin Sueb Biang Kerok Movie Download Benyamin Sueb Biang Kerok Movie Latest 2020.Q: How to pass parameters from VBA script to script of class library I have class library to build graphs in excel. This is standard code of MyClass1: Public Function MyFunction(ByVal myNumber1 As Integer, ByVal myNumber2 As Integer) As String Dim myString1 As String Dim myString2 As String myString1 = myNumber1 & "," & myNumber2 myString2 = myNumber1 + myNumber2 MyFunction = myString1 & "," & myString2 End Function And there is VBA script. When I create an instance of MyClass1 and call MyFunction, I want to pass arguments to it. Dim myObject as New MyClass1 myObject.MyFunction(3, 5) But I don't want to specify parameters in MyFunction itself. A: If you add a method to the class, you can specify the parameter values in the method: Public Function MyFunction(ByVal myNumber1 As Integer, ByVal myNumber2 As Integer) As String MyFunction = myNumber1 + myNumber2 End Function and then call it from your VBA code: myObject.MyFunction(3, 5) or, from inside the function: Public Function MyFunction(ByVal myNumber1 As Integer, ByVal myNumber2 As Integer) As String MyFunction = myNumber1 & "," & myNumber2 End Function A: You can do this by providing default values for parameters when the class is defined. First you should define the default value. If you define default parameter values you must provide the type of the variable you are using: Private DefaultValue As String Public Property Get DefaultValue() As String DefaultValue = "Test" End Property Public Property Set DefaultValue(ByVal Value As String) End Property In your case, the string "Test" can be replaced by whatever value you like. After that, you can modify your function like this: Public Function MyFunction(ByVal myNumber1 As String,
