Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a chip mounting structure and a manufacturing method thereof, and more particularly, to a chip mounting structure suitable for mounting a chip which has the same shape in both an upper surface and a lower surface thereof on a substrate and a manufacturing method thereof. 2. Description of the Related Art Conventionally, as a technique of a mounting structure of a chip, a mounting structure of a chip called as a flip chip is known (refer to JP-A-H10-249597 (paragraphs 0021-0026, FIG. 1)). This mounting structure is structured to mount a chip on a substrate by using a thermo-compression bonding. The chip is fixed on a substrate surface by using the thermo-compression bonding. The thermo-compression bonding is the method of thermally compressing a soldering material, such as a solder ball and the like, in the state that the soldering material is brought into contact with a chip mounting surface of the chip, thereby hardening the soldering material. In this mounting structure, the thermo-compression bonding is carried out to mount the chip on the substrate. The substrate is provided with a plurality of bump electrodes. The bump electrodes are electrically connected with the chip mounting surface. The bump electrodes are electrically connected with the substrate surface via, for example, a wiring pattern (refer to JP-
