They're like shortcut features that let you perform a certain action on just one image in your file. Using these tools can spare time and make your editing faster. When you perform these actions, Photoshop does the rest of your corrections automatically for you in a single action. It's an extremely powerful feature. Photoshop CS5 includes an updated user interface that includes new options for adjustment layers, masking, document organization, and how your image is displayed in the workspace. You'll also find new features like Optical Flow, a nondestructive editing tool to help you decide where to crop your image. What's New In?

Recent Articles Introduction This year, the eighth anniversary of Bitcoin was celebrated in somewhat unconventional fashion: No major development took place in Bitcoin, and its price didn't even make a big dip. This was also the first year that the current version of the Bitcoin protocol, Bitcoin Cash (BCH), was launched. Bitcoin Cash forked away from Bitcoin in 2017 to create a new cryptocurrency BCH. The new currency had different rules and regulations, and it was not backed by any third-party institution. That was one of its main goals: to be a currency that was purely peer-to-peer. You can get BCH either by mining blocks or by following the "Bitcoin Cash" blockchain, which is what Bitcoin is. Thus, you can get BCH by trading Bitcoin for BCH, and this method is often referred to as "hodling". Since the forking, Bitcoin Cash has been a hot topic in the crypto community, as it is perceived to have more of the characteristics of a "proper" cryptocurrency and it would somehow bridge the gap between Bitcoin and the rest. According to its Wikipedia page, "Bitcoin Cash is a peer-to-peer version of digital currency and payment system Bitcoin. Like Bitcoin, Bitcoin Cash runs on a distributed peer-to-peer network and uses cryptographic proof of work to secure and verify transactions." So, the main differences of Bitcoin Cash are that it is perceived as a legitimate "next-gen" cryptocurrency and that it is backed by a company called "Bitcoin.com". Thus, the goal is that, by buying Bitcoin Cash, you are actually investing in the company. You get shares of Bitcoin.com as a bonus. Additionally, its network is much less centralized, compared to that of Bitcoin. That's why the currency is perceived as such an exciting idea, and why many are intrigued with Bitcoin Cash, as the blockchain of this currency is much more decentralized. That's why it seems like a more genuine cryptocurrency, especially when you pay with Bitcoin Cash. What does that all mean, in practice? Let's first take a look at the most important features of Bitcoin Cash, the differences to those of Bitcoin, and the pros and cons of these currencies, before we step into the first coin trading tips. Features of Bitcoin Cash Bitcoin Cash forked from the original Bitcoin in 2017, and that means
